

SCHOOL PROFILE FOR UNIVERSITY ADMISSIONS OFFICERS.

ESTABLISHED 1963, United World College SINCE 1981 Accredited by ISASA.

Founded in 1963 as a direct response to the separate and unequal education systems in South Africa, Waterford Kamhlaba's student body is international from over 60 countries, yet it has a special focus on its place and role in Southern Africa: over 70% of the students come from countries within the continent. The college pays particular attention to the human and development needs of Swaziland and addresses these through a strong scholarship scheme and challenging community service programme. Partner organisations include the Higher Life Foundation, SOS Children's Villages and Allan Gray Orbis Foundation. Nearly half of our IBDP class of 120 students receives needs based financial aid.

Waterford Kamhlaba offers a five-year course to Cambridge IGCSE (CIE) and the two year IB Diploma Program. It maintains a policy of merit as the only criterion for admission. Being in the Southern Hemisphere; the College's academic year runs from January to November with all IB courses being taught throughout the three terms in both years. Final IBDP results are released on January 3rd. There is no midyear report.

The Curriculum at Waterford Kamhlaba

Waterford kaMhlaba United World College is a co-educational, non-denominational international school, which provides education from Form 1 (11 years old) through to the International Baccalaureate Diploma section. Entry into the IB DP section is very competitive: some students apply externally from the region having successfully completed O'Level or IGCSE or a curriculum of similar standing. Others will be admitted from our own Form 5, IGCSE class. Lastly, some forty or so students each year are selected on merit by United World Colleges' approved Selection Committees in each country, often as a result of a highly competitive process. The College attracts an unusually diverse and talented group of students from a very wide range of socio-economic circumstances. IBDP class size is around 15.

At the College the medium of instruction is English. Many students are not native English speakers.
